Business Ethics for the 21st Century

ORAL PRESENTATION ASSIGNMENT

SPEAKING YOUR TRUTH

Your presentation should be EXACTLY 1 minute long. (Rehearse it to be sure.)

You can present anything to the class that you feel strongly about and that relates significantly to the inquiry we have undertaken. If you're not sure what you would like to present to the class, consider the following:

1. Although the course is not yet over, give an encapsulation of something significant you have already been able to take-away from the class.
2. Describe the single point from lecture, the reading, or discussion that has struck you the most.
3. Develop any surprising theme or thread running through the course that has revealed itself to you.
4. Describe a concept, method, or understanding, etc. from the course that you have already found yourself successfully applying in some part of your life.
5. Share with us an "ethical inspiration" that has recently struck you – occurring in yourself, one of your relationships, or in the world.

Take the opportunity seriously, and have fun with it!
